VODKA

Prairie Organic Vodka

Prairie Organic Vodka is beautifully smooth. With hints of melon and pear on the nose, creaminess on the palate, and a bright, smooth finish, it rivals the most luxurious vodka in the world. It's a natural journey from the earth to the bottle.

A beautifully smooth vodka distilled from organic #2 yellow corn and certified both organic and kosher, Prairie Organic Vodka will be featured at the Grand Tasting Pavilion where attendees can sample the new spirit straight and try it in a signature Prairie cocktail.

Prairie Organic Vodka is one of a handful of spirits certified kosher by the Orthodox Union and organic by the USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) – which requires that the entire process, from the field all the way to the bottle, be completely free of chemical pesticides, herbicides, genetically modified seeds and artificial fertilizers or enzymes.

Kosher (meaning “proper” or “fit”) is not a blessing or prayer, rather a certification that the sources of all ingredients are documented and approved, the distilling and bottling facilities are clean and hygienic, and all equipment has been properly sterilized prior to the production of each batch of vodka. This ensures that everything from the ingredients to distillation to bottling meets kosher standards for purity and cleanliness. At the heart of kosher certification is the trust that, once approved, the process is adhered to and respected for a lifetime.
